CORN YIELD IN STATE TO BE MODERATESurvey Shows Corn
One to Three Weeks
Late

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Springfield, Ill., Aug. 19.—A moderate corn yield is the best Illinois farmers can expect, "with the outturn largely dependent upon favorable fall conditions," A. J. Surratt, federal agricultural statistician for Illinois declared here today in making his semi-monthly crop report.

"Due to ample soil moisture," his report said, "corn continues to grow fairly well in spite of the rather weedy condition of fields and cool weather. Spotted storm and insect damage, especially in the northern area, has been about offset by improvement in the balance of the state. At best there is a moderate crop prospect with the outturn largely dependent upon favorable fall conditions."

Root Worm Active
"Considerable effort is being made to control the root worm," Surratt said. "The crop is one to three weeks late and ranges mostly from tassels to roasting ear stage. The root worm is causing more damage than usual. Farm reserves are light as a rule."

About Two Weeks Late
"With some exception chiefly in the northern area, corn, grass, vegetable and fruit crop prospects have been maintained or slightly improved during the past two weeks, general rains have ranged from heavy in the north to light in the south. Near cloudburst on the 8th in the Kankakee to Ottawa area, caused considerable damage to grain in the shock and badly lodged corn and the late end of small grain crops remaining uncut. Warm weather of the first week of the month has been followed by unseasonably cool weather to date. Threshing has made little progress in the northern half, due to frequent rain interruptions, but farm work in general has been followed by good progress in the southern half of the state. Generally speaking, all plant growth as well as field work will average about two weeks late."

Northern Wheat Better
"State winter wheat yield fully up to the government August last estimate of 14.7 bushels per acre. Yields vary sharply in the southern half of the state, but improve northward. Country lowered somewhat in many counties by frequent rains, while in the shock and some sprouting is reported, especially in the upper west central area. State quality will average fair to good. Oats are an unusually large crop. Some discoloring from rains, but quality mostly favorable. Harvesting practically completed in the north. Threshing ranges from completed in the south to starting in the north. State wheat crop 55 percent and oats 24 percent threshed. Barley is yielding fair to heavy and ripe fair."

"Pastures are reported good to excellent quite generally. Haying is late, but nearing completion. Work much retarded this season by frequent rains and much hay has been damaged. Yields favorable generally. Young clover prospect is the best in years."

Fruit Crop Light
"Fruit crop prospect improved slightly due to the favorable size of the fruit. The state crop, however, will be rather light. Early apples, a better crop than late varieties. In a general way apples and pears will be about a half crop. Peaches are a large crop in extreme southern counties and practically a failure elsewhere. Melon crops are below average and late."

"Livestock condition reports are favorable generally. Farm labor situation is reported satisfactory as a rule over most of the state."

13-Year-Old Boy Killed
at Cortland by an Auto

DeKalb.—Denzil Decker aged 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Decker, of Cortland, was instantly killed Sunday afternoon about four o'clock when he was struck by the Studebaker touring car driven by Joseph J. Ruttenberg, streator, while standing with his bicycle near the northeast culvert at the intersection of East Lincoln Highway and Cortland road. He was picked up by Ludwig Narva and William O'Malley, of this city, and taken to the hidden hospital, but was dead before the hospital was reached. It is thought that the boy died instantly after being hit by the auto.

MRS. COOLIDGE
ANSWERS NOTE
ON SON'S DEATHWrites Beautiful Letter to Woman Who Sympathized.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, Aug. 19.—A letter which Mrs. Calvin Coolidge wrote to Mrs. Oliver R. Ingersoll of Brooklyn in response to a message of sympathy at the time of the death of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., was made public today by Mrs. Ingersoll.

In giving the letter to The Associated Press Mrs. Ingersoll said she believed she was fulfilling Mrs. Coolidge's desire to send a personal message of appreciation to each of the thousands of persons who sent their condolences to the White House—a task made physically impossible by the number of letters.

The letter follows:
"Thank you for your very kind letter of sympathy. It is one of the comparatively few letters I have received from the many thousands for me to read and somehow I wanted to thank you myself. It is a great regret to me that I cannot answer every letter, the little cards seem so cold in response to such warm expressions of sympathy. But that is a physical impossibility—I cannot even read them all—so I satisfy—or try to—myself with writing a very sincere appreciation to a few, hoping in some miraculous way that it will spread and make itself felt wherever a kindly thought has been sent out to me."

"Do hymns ever sing themselves over and over to you? This is the one which has come to me most often since Calvin went home. Rather, it is a part of the last verse of a hymn:
"I know not where his islands lift
Their fringed palms in air,
I only know I cannot drift
Beyond His love and care."
"Sincerely yours,
"Grace Coolidge."

Cars Are Damaged When
Cranked While in Gear

A peculiar accident took place this morning in front of the Dixon grocery in which the front of a Chevrolet touring car belonging to J. H. Wheelock was somewhat damaged. The driver of a Yellow Taxi Cab which was parked ahead of the Wheelock car found it necessary to crank his car and apparently forgot that the machine was in reverse. When the engine of the cab started the cab backed into the touring car and pushed it back. The back of the touring car was against the large Keyes-Ahrens truck which was just coming out of the alley way as the taxi driver succeeded in getting into the machine and putting it out of gear.

BRYAN HIT AT DEFENSE TEST
IN HIS SPEECHPledged Farm Aid,
Peace and Many Other Things in Speech

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 18.—Thousands of his fellow Nebraskans and many leaders of Democracy tonight heard Charles W. Bryan, Democratic candidate for vice president, tell the advantages his party opens to the voters in November when he addressed them, accepting formally the nomination.

Lincoln was in gala attire for the ceremonies held at the University of Nebraska memorial stadium.

Missouri Woman Presides.
Mrs. Emily Newton Blair of Joplin, Mo., national committeewoman from Missouri, presided at the notification and introduced the speakers. The address of notification was made by Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, keynote at the party convention.

In an appeal directed to mothers, to farmers and to labor, Bryan characterized John W. Davis, head of the ticket, as a progressive Democrat and the party platform as the "most progressive platform for the time."

He said the party was for the economic freedom and prosperity of the people, that has ever been promulgated by a national political convention.

Hits at Defense Day.
Although Bryan did not mention specifically his objections to Defense day, he said:

"War propaganda, mobilization demonstrations of the civil and industrial resources of the country when we are at peace with the world unnecessarily inflames the mind of the American youth, are great economic waste and mislead the people of other lands as to the peaceful and friendly intention of the United States government and should be discouraged by all friends for world peace."

"The only hope of the world is found in the substitution of machinery for peace in place of machinery for war."

"Our party will endeavor to secure world disarmament by international agreement—it is a condition precedent to peace. It will also strive for an international agreement providing for a referendum on war except in case of actual or threatened invasion. This may require time, but it is worth working for and worth waiting for."

Mr. Bryan's speech in full was: The generous statement of your chairman in presenting your audience, and in placing before this meeting, and into the ears of unseen millions throughout the land his encouragement and cheer to those who believe in a government by the people, is sincerely appreciated.

It would be wholly lacking in the impulse of humanity if I failed to appreciate the very great honor the Democratic party has conferred upon me in nominating me for Vice-President of the United States. I would be derelict in my obligations to the Democratic party and to the nation as well if I failed to recognize the responsibilities accompanying that honor.

The desire on the part of the citizens of Lincoln that this notification take place here was very gratifying to me. I have made my home here for thirty years. I have come to know these people as only few know them. It is here and here that I have taken part in the business, social life and the political life of the city and state. I am indebted to the people of Lincoln and of the State of Nebraska for whatever success I may have achieved.

My connection for more than twenty years with the publication in Lincoln of "The Commoner," a national magazine devoted to the defense and welfare of the Common people in their inalienable rights, gave me an opportunity to try to apply the principles of "equal rights to all and special privileges to none" to the political problems that are constantly confronting the people of every city and of every state. My connection with the problems of government, city and state, with which the people of Lincoln and the State of Nebraska are so vitally concerned, has been a constant one.

SUES POLO EDITOR
FOR $10000 ON
CHARGE OF LIBELRep. Baker Sues Editor
Hemingway on Campaign Charge.

A libel suit for $10,000 has been filed in Circuit court at Oregon by Representative Charles W. Baker, of Monroe County against C. H. Hemingway, editor and publisher of the Tri-County Press, a weekly newspaper at Polo. Attorneys Roy F. Hall, Rockford, and Seyater & Fearer, Oregon, represent the complainant.

In his bill of complaint, Mr. Baker alleges that the Polo editor in editorial and news columns published articles during the recent Republican primary campaign which were untrue.

The bill specifically mentions an editorial appearing in the Tri-County Press on March 27, 1924, immediately after the re-routing of Route 77, which was changed from its original course in the proposed bond issue when the bill was presented before the state legislature, to connect Mr. Morris and Oregon rather than Polo and Oregon.

Result of Primary Fight.
During the campaign, the Polo editor is alleged to have bitterly attacked the bond issue as presented, holding Baker as personally responsible for the road change. In an inter-county battle between newspapers at Mt. Morris and Polo, accusations are said to have been hurled with reckless abandon.

In the edition on March 27, Editor Hemingway made the following editorial comment on Baker's candidacy and the Monroe Center Representative's activity on the road change:

"Baker, who like Small, whose dupe he is, hates himself if he ever has an honest thought or impulse suddenly for consideration."

Mr. Rittenhouse mentioned in the paragraph, was managing editor of the Mt. Morris Index.

Continuing in the editorial, Mr. Hemingway is alleged to have referred to "Baker's treacherous and dishonest change of heart."

Hemingway Ill.
Editor Hemingway was unable to give a statement today.

The Polo editor is critically ill at his home, according to members of his family.

"We are ready for the suit and will demand that it be heard during the October term," said one of Mr. Baker's attorneys today.

ELKS' PICNIC WILL BE DELAYED UNTIL
WEATHER IMPROVES

Thursday's Jollification at Hunt's Grove Is Postponed.

Because of the especially bad weather and forecasts for more of it, the Dixon Lodge of Elks have been forced to postpone their big picnic planned for Thursday afternoon at Hunt's Grove, north of Ashton. All preparations had been made, but it was felt by the officers of the club that it would be folly to go ahead with the program under present weather conditions. It is planned to hold the picnic at a later date, to be announced when weather conditions are improved.

NOTIFY DAWES
TONIGHT—BIG
CELEBRATIONAll Arrangements Are Made For Notification
Ceremonies

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Evanston, Ill., Aug. 19.—Charles G. Dawes, once currency controller, once the A. E. F.'s chief purchasing agent, once federal budget director and once head of the reparation commission's experts committee, waited at his home here today for the coming of republican leaders to add formally another title to his name—that of republican vice presidential nominee.

The party chieftains are gathered by the thousands in Chicago and tonight they will march on this quiet little city on the shore of Lake Michigan to notify Mr. Dawes in formal manner of his selection as republican candidate for vice president.

The notification will take place at ceremonies to be held on the lawn of the stately Dawes home, starting at 8 o'clock daylight saving time. The exercises are to be preceded by a muster parade of the old fashioned type, designed to give the whole affair something of the flavor of a big political rally.

All Dressed Up
Evanston is dressed in her best with flags and banners flying and her citizens have decorated all the streets about the Dawes' home.

Officials of the republican national committee working with Evanston citizens in arranging for the ceremonies expect upwards of a hundred thousand people to gather about the Dawes home and along the nearby lake front should the weather be favorable. Voice amplifying apparatus has been installed to insure that all may hear.

Thousands Coming
Delegations from nearly a hundred Chicago organizations, some political, some civic, some labor, some business and some representative of the nominee's native state of Ohio, have reserved space near the speaker's stand. An almost equal number of delegations is expected from other mid-western cities and towns.

Many of the delegations plan to bring banners, torches and bands with them. The republican group has received permission to anchor a stonemason's calloph of the circus type opposite the Dawes home.

Broadcast Over U. S.
Thousands upon thousands will hear the proceedings by radio as engineers have installed apparatus linking up 16 of the larger radio broadcasting stations of the country, extending from New England far into the west. The broadcasting will start at 6:45 p. m., central standard time.

William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, will preside. The invocation will be offered by one of Mr. Dawes' neighbors, the Rev. John Thompson, pastor of the First Methodist church of Chicago and the benediction will be pronounced by the Rev. Hugh P. Smyth, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church of Evanston.

The notification address will be made by Former Representative A. W. Jeffers of Nebraska.

Mr. Dawes' address will immediately follow that made by Mr. Jeffers and after the benediction the ceremonies will end.

Several functions incidental to the main proceedings were arranged for today. The Hamilton Club of Chicago, will entertain many of the visitors at a luncheon with Senator Watson of Indiana and Chairman Butler as speakers, and the republican editors of Illinois will have a dinner just before the notification ceremonies.

Mr. Dawes will entertain the members of the national committee and of the notification committee and a number of others at dinner.

TESTIMONY ALL IN
TODAY IN FRANKS
MURDER HEARINGArguments Will Close Famous Trial of Rich Youths.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Aug. 19.—Testimony was finished today in the case of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed murderers of Robert Franks. A final exchange of pleasantries between Dr. William O. Krohn, state alienist and attorneys for the defense marked the conclusion of this phase of the proceedings.

As both sides declared their cases complete, the attorneys gathered before the bench and conferred as to procedure on arguments. Thomas Marshall, legal expert for the state's attorney, was announced as the opening orator for the prosecution. A five-minute recess preceded the start of the arguments.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Courtesy raised to the highest degree marked the cross-examination today of Dr. William O. Krohn, state alienist, and last witness in the judicial hearing which is to determine the punishment of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb for the kidnapping and murdering of Robert Franks. In contrast to yesterday's proceedings when the expert and Benjamin Bachrach, of counsel for the defense, shouted angry retorts back and forth, there were smiles and "pleases" exchanged today. The expert punctiliously used "sir" in every answer and the attorney never failed to address the witness as "Doctor."

Even thrusts at the stands each of the sides to the case have taken failed to provoke sharp retorts.

"Exaggerated Claims."
Dr. Krohn once found occasion to dig the defense attorneys theories, explaining that he had no formal opinion on the mentalities of the defendants since June 1, and that newspaper interviews quoting him on that had resulted from his attempts to explain "exaggerated claims made by the defense."

"You mean that the reporters told you these exaggerations were offered by the defense, did you not?" asked Mr. Bachrach.

"Not entirely. Anyway I tried to explain them for the boys," was the answer.

"Ask him if he could explain them," suggested Clarence Darrow to Mr. Bachrach.

"Could you explain them?" the witness was asked.

The doctor flushed a bit, at the implication, but smiled and answered negatively.

The program for today called for the start of arguments as soon as the cross-examination was finished.

Would Open and Close.
Mr. Darrow announced today he would ask permission of the court to have the defense make the opening and closing argument on the theory that the burden of proof of mitigation is on the defense.

Expect Oratory
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Aug. 19.—Expectation of oratory by attorneys was a magnet that drew to the Franks' murder hearing today the usual crowd of spectators underdressed by a soaking rain.

Dr. William O. Krohn, chief alienist for the state, resumed the stand for further cross examination by Benjamin Bachrach, for the defense.

Word came from the state's attorney's office that Dr. Krohn was the last witness for the prosecution. The defense said that unless something unforeseen developed no rebuttal testimony would be offered.

Leopold and Loeb were in good spirits as they entered court after a friendly sparring match in the "bull pen."

Out of the first 43 couples seeking marriage licenses in New Orleans under the new eugenics law, only one—prospective bridegroom had thought to obtain the necessary medical certificate. He was Alexis J. Crovetto, Jr., who is shown above with his bride, Miss Elizabeth Ober. Postponed weddings were rife while near-hides waited for the near-bridegrooms to see the doctor.

YOUNGEST LIFER,
SENTENCED AT 14,
ESCAPES JOLIETMurdered Mother and
Two Babies Eleven
Years Ago.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Aurora, Ill., Aug. 19.—Herman Coppes, 25, of Plato, Ill., who at 14 years of age was sentenced to serve a life term in the state penitentiary at Joliet for the murder of Mrs. Mary Sleep and her two babies at the Sleep farm home in Plato, Illinois escaped from the honor farm Sunday, it was learned today. Coppes was the youngest person ever sentenced to a life term in the state of Illinois. He went to prison June 12, 1912. The crime for which he was sentenced was committed April 17, 1912.

He first denied guilt, but later pleaded guilty, alienist testifying for him at a trial in Geneva, Ill., said he was not normal, although he could not tell late this afternoon, and at the same time the wind blew down a number of telephone poles at the same place, the poles falling across the highway, and making it necessary for traffic to seek the "by-ways and hedges."

Maples Blown Down.
East of the city several of "The Maples" about three and one half miles from the city were blown down across the Lincoln Highway, completely closing that thoroughfare for all tourists from the east to come in to Dixon by the Dayville Road, until the Illinois State Highway Department, through its Dixon office, got busy and removed the obstructions.

Hundreds of acres of corn were leveled flat to the ground by the wind and rain.

The storm, following the path of the miniature cyclone that swept over Dixon a few weeks ago, twisted over several big maple trees on the north side, but so far as is known, no damage of serious proportions resulted.

OVER THREE INCHES RAIN
POURED DOWNFarmers Dismayed at
Continued Bad Weather
Here

The record rainfall of the season visited Dixon and vicinity during Monday afternoon, Monday night and Tuesday morning, the total of the precipitation 1 noon today, computed from the mark at 6 o'clock Monday morning, being three and twenty-one hundredths inches.

Not during the present season—which to mist farmers seems to have been one of nothing but rain—has there been so much water fall in a like length of time.

Farmers, whose grain has been standing in the shock awaiting threshing for several days, anticipate a loss that cannot be calculated. Thousands of acres of grain in Lee county will be worthless, it is said by those who know, including former Supervisor D. S. Spenser, who in a statement to the Telegraph at noon today, said that today's rain has cost Lee county farmers millions of dollars.

On practically four-fifths of the farms in Lee county, it is reported the grain has been out and is awaiting the threshers. In many cases a week ago this grain was commencing to sprout in the shocks—today is rotting.

Corn Far Behind.
Mr. Spencer stated to The Telegraph that there are thousands of acres of corn in this county which will never mature. As a member of the Board of Review he expressed an opinion that farmers of this community will experience a severely "bad" season, because of the "October weather" and the possibility of an extremely early frost.

The heavy rain, which started at 4:40 a. m. today, continued until afternoon, and thereby nullified the old adage: "If it rains before seven it will quit before eleven."

A high wind, which accompanied the storm of 5 a. m. and 11 a. m. caused considerable trouble to others besides the farmers.

Five poles carrying the Sterling, Dixon & Eastern trolley line were blown down at Drews Corners, completely interrupting interurban traffic until late this afternoon, and at the same time the wind blew down a number of telephone poles at the same place, the poles falling across the highway, and making it necessary for traffic to seek the "by-ways and hedges."

Maples Blown Down.
East of the city several of "The Maples" about three and one half miles from the city were blown down across the Lincoln Highway, completely closing that thoroughfare for all tourists from the east to come in to Dixon by the Dayville Road, until the Illinois State Highway Department, through its Dixon office, got busy and removed the obstructions.

Today's Market Report

Corn Recovered from Early Setback Today

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Wheat weakness that was associated with seeming dearth of export business had a bearish effect on the corn market today. Corn was unsettled  $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ net lower, Dec. 1.17 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Although the corn market underwent a material setback soon after the opening today, prices quickly developed new strength. Forecasts of rising temperature were largely responsible for the general selling that temporarily carried the market downward. On the other hand heavy storms in Illinois and Iowa tended to stimulate aggressive fresh buying. Initial quotations which ranged from  $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢ decline to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ advance with Dec. 1.17 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ were followed by a general fall of about  $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ and then by a rally to above yesterday's finish.

Wheat values showed a downward tendency, indications pointing to unlikelihood of further serious crop damage in Canada. Besides, export demand appeared slack. After opening at  $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢ lower to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ advance, Sept. 1.30 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ and Dec. 1.35 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢, the wheat market suffered a decided general drop but recovered somewhat when corn turned upward.

Wet weather gave firmness to oats. Starting at  $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢ off to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ up, Dec. 67¢, prices sagged but then scored good gains.

Provisions were governed by the action of corn.

Further bulges in the corn market ensued, and Dec. oats touched a new high price record for the season. Later, however, there was much profit taking in corn, and the market felt the influence of wheat weakness. Besides, talk was current about considerable imports of Argentine corn for use along the seaboard, both on the Atlantic and Pacific.

Subsequently favorable wheat crop reports from Australia and predictions of rain in Argentina were bearish factors and there was increased notice of lack of export purchasing in United States wheat. The close was weak 2¢ to 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ net lower, Sept. 1.27 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ to 1.28 and Dec. 1.33 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢.

Chicago Livestock

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Hogs: 24,000; slow, opened 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ higher than Monday's average on desirables, shipping demand more active, packers doing little, top 10.15; bulk 160 to 200 pounds 9.75 to 10.00; packing 8.35 to 8.75; better strong weight killing pigs 8.75 to 9.00; heavy hogs 9.55 to 10.10; medium 9.40 to 10.15; lights 9.00 to 10.10; light hogs 8.50 to 9.00; packing hogs smooth 8.50 to 9.00; rough 8.00 to 8.50; slaughter pigs 8.00 to 9.00.

WHITE COLONY IN AFRICA SUBJECT TO BLACK RULE

Fifty White Men and Women Serfs of African Chief.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

London, Aug. 19.—Out of the great African interior by way of Cape Town comes a pathetic story of a group of white men and women living in subjection to blacks.

The fate of these whites is revealed in a report which the South African government's latest expedition, now in the interior of the great Kalahari Desert, have sent to Cape Town.

One hundred miles in the interior the officials were taken before Sebele, the native chief. They found him well educated, able to speak English fluently and both he and his wife were Europeans.

Whites Are Serfs

The visitors discovered some fifty white men and women living near the chief's kraal, where they acted as servants to the chief and his followers. They are thought to be descendants of old Dutch pioneers who lost themselves in the desert. Their horses, overcome with the drought, died and the pioneers flung themselves on the mercy of the natives.

These unfortunates have no power to own land and no privileges of any kind. They are virtually serfs, tilling the land of their masters who give them small quantities of grain as wages.

The natives are rich in cattle and land. The whites are not permitted to possess firearms.

Davenport Suffers from Flood After Heavy Rain Today

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Davenport, Ia., Aug. 19.—Twenty-three people, all tourists who were camped at the city tourist park here last night, were rescued from drowning this morning, when Duck Creek, a small stream which adjoins the camp went over its banks as a result of the heavy rains. The raging waters swept down upon the camp, carrying the camp outfits with it, while men, women and children were forced to cling to trees, boxes, logs and fence posts to keep from being swept away. Several children were nearly drowned and were saved after a hard fight made by police and deputy sheriffs who were sent to their rescue.

The water at the camp site was between four and five feet deep and swept down almost without warning. Many of the tourists lost all of their belongings, while several cars were reported to have been washed away by the raging torrent. It took three hours to complete the rescue work, ropes, boats and rafts being employed by the rescuers.

SPEEDING TOURIST PAID FOR DAMAGE DONE IN ASHTON

Assessed for Dead Horse and Damaged Car—Paid Fine.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

A trip through Illinois last Tuesday proved very costly to one Henry Barker, a furniture dealer of Indiana Harbor, Ind., for today he was assessed judgments and fines in two Dixon justice courts amounting to $220 and the costs of suits, just because he drove into another car, shoving that car into a team of horses and fracturing the leg of one of the animals, which necessitated its being destroyed.

To Deputy Sheriff Fred Richardson of Ashton goes the credit for having the destroyed horse paid for the damages to the horse and the car, owned and driven by F. A. Wedlock of Amboy, guaranteed; and the Illinois motor law vindicated.

According to the evidence introduced in Justice Albert H. Hanneken's court, where A. J. Orner, an Ashton farmer, brought suit against Barker for the dead horse, it was established that the Indiana man, driving at a rate of speed in excess of 20 miles an hour through the village of Ashton, tried to pass Wedlock, just as he turned out to pass the wagon and team driven by Orner. Barker struck Wedlock's machine, driving it into the team and breaking one of the horse's legs. The animal was killed, and in Justice Hanneken's court the owner of the horse was awarded a judgment of $200 and costs of the suit, and Wedlock was awarded a judgment of the cost of the repairs on his car, plus costs, amounting to about $13.

Hardly had the Indiana man made good, through a motor club to which he belongs, before he was arrested on a warrant by Deputy Sheriff Richardson, who happened to be on the ground at the time of the accident, and the tourist was hauled before Justice Grover Gehant, who fined him $5 and costs, a total of $13.40, for reckless driving.

COOLIDGE GIVES OLD SAP BUCKET TO HENRY FORD

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Plymouth, Vt., Aug. 19.—President Coolidge today presented to Henry Ford a worn sap bucket, used by him in collecting maple sap on the farm. The bucket, the president said, was brought to Plymouth by John Coolidge, grandfather of the president's grand father, an original settler here.

As he handed it to Mr. Ford, the latter turned to Thomas A. Edison, seated next to him in the swing and declared:

"I have never received anything since I got Mrs. Ford, that I appreciate so much."

President Signs Bucket

Mr. Ford asked for the President's signature which was written on the bottom of the "J. Coolidge, Plymouth." After all members of the party had signed their names the president inscribed with a pen:

"Made for and used by John Coolidge, an original settler of Plymouth. He died in 1822. Used also by Calvin Coolidge in the sugar lot when he was a boy at home."

Mr. Ford, Mr. Edison and Harvey Firestone, with their families are visiting the Coolidges as a part of their vacation tour.

WELL, WHAT IS IT—WE'D LIKE TO KNOW, TOO—

In the motion picture "Robin Hood," Lady Marian desires to send a message to the Earl of Huntington and chooses Little John for a messenger. She presents John with a scroll which is protected by what seems to be a black case or tube.

As he handed it over, a small boy in the audience asked his mother what it was.

"That's a flashlight," she answered in a loud voice.

"Don't show your ignorance," Mary," said her husband. "They didn't have flashlights in those days. That's a thermos bottle."—American Legion Weekly.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—Disinfect Sink.

STUNNING WRAP

This very stunning wrap will probably strike a more responsive chord in the average woman's consciousness a few months from now than today, but it is well to know what we will be wanting as soon as the weather warrants it. This coat shows the fashionable shawl collar of seal fur which forms an entire facing down the front of the coat. The coat is of felt blue with an overdesign in silk threads that reflect a lighter tone. No muff would ever be necessary with these fur cuffs.

Will Discuss Fall Election at Meet of State Bankers' Assn.

Coming in the midst of the presidential campaigns, particular interest will attach this year to the convention at Chicago of the American Bankers Association, which always devotes a large part of its sessions to leading questions of general welfare and to formulating a declaration of principles on business and financial subjects.

Dixon bankers have received a communication from Walter W. Head, president of the association, pointing out the importance of this year's meeting and urging their attendance. Mr. Head says in part:

"The American Bankers Association is to meet this year in the midst of a national campaign, in which are involved the election of a president and vice president, the selection of senators and congressmen and the determination of important questions of foreign and domestic policy. Such a campaign always affects the course of business and finance in some degree. More than that it tends always to raise questions in the minds of men of every walk of life, relative to the efficiency of their government, the propriety of policies undertaken or advocated, and the continued stability of national institutions which may be subject to attack."

"The American Bankers Association is not engaged in partisan politics and its convention at Chicago, September 29-October 24, will be entirely devoid of partisan flavor. Our convention, however, will necessarily take note of the situation in which the country finds itself. It will naturally survey its own and related fields, in order that its highest intelligence and utmost energy may be devoted to the maintenance of those principles of economic sanity and progress to which we are always devoted."

THE GATEWAY AMENDMENT.

An appeal has been issued by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce to all organizations of business men to work for adoption of the "gateway" amendment to the state constitution. It appears that this is one issue in which business interests and labor interests are going to unite publicly.

Under provisions of the present constitution only one article can be amended at one time by a general assembly. After failure of the people to ratify the draft of the constitutional convention, the effort to liberalize the amending methods was renewed.

In 1896 there was submitted to the voters a proposal that three amendments might be offered at one time. More than twice as many persons voted for the amendment as voted against it, but failure to meet the requirement that the number of favorable ballots should be a majority of the votes cast for representative in the general assembly caused defeat.

On that occasion the vote was: For, 163,059; against, 66,519; necessary for adoption, 545,435.

It was apparent that apathy, not opposition, caused the defeat. It is possible for the amendment now proposed to be defeated in the same manner. It is generally conceded that the sentiment is strong enough for it to assure adoption if that sentiment is recorded.

The amendment proposed, which will be submitted to the electorate November 4, provides that two articles may be amended at one time. The legislature had before it the proposal that was defeated in 1896, but a compromise was reached on two instead of three amendments.

LONG AGO.

How the ancient Egyptians managed to move the huge stones they used in their pyramids and other monuments that have endured through the ages, has long puzzled scientists as much as tourists.

Old records, discovered, reveal that manpower was the way, rather than gigantic wooden machinery since crumbled to dust. Six thousand slaves, tugging at strong ropes, moved a stone 137 feet long, tapered to a base 14 feet across, weighing 1168 tons.

Machinery has released us from that kind of slavery—and given us another kind. We've just changed taskmasters.

SLIPPERY.

Russian oil output is mounting rapidly—seven million tons expected this year, or three-fourths of normal pre-war output.

With such a plum ripening, you will hear more kindly words about the Soviet from sources connected with our Wall Street and London's Lombard Street. Russia, her gigantic natural resources barely touched, is the next country on the program of foreign exploiters. The Russians will benefit in the exploitation, however, so maybe it's for the best. China will be the last reserve.

COAL.

Have you bought your winter supply of coal? Railroads have 170,000 surplus coal cars idle and accumulating rust on side-tracks. As usual, only more so than ordinarily, the public is delaying its coal buying until the last minute. When the rush comes, prices skyrocket—even though only about a tenth of the total output of soft coal mines is burned in the homes.

A young doctor tells us he is studying anatomy at a bathing beach.

NIAGARA'S RETREAT.

If Niagara Falls were left to itself it would retreat sixteen miles from its present location to Lake Erie, by the year A. D. 21,924. Three hundred centuries ago, according to geologists, the mighty cataract was located seven miles from its present site at Lewistown. It is excavating more rapidly now, cutting back its rock edge more than four feet a year.

But scientists don't intend to let Niagara Falls alone. Engineers are studying the problem now with a view to rescuing this natural wonder from itself. Somehow, some day, they will work out and apply a method for reinforcing the lip of the falls so that its recession will stop, or at least be greatly retarded.

Few tasks leading with the readjustment of nature seem impossible in these days. If a new glacial age should attempt to come upon the earth it is quite likely modern science would be employed by engineers to check it or perhaps to harness the glaciers in some way and make them work for humanity.

Still, it is a little early to crow over man's mastery of nature or to guarantee that home-owners, 20,000 years from now, can gaze upon an unchanged Niagara Falls. Storms and earthquakes and other forces that nature uses in occasional remodelings of the earth's surface are very hard to tame.

BLINDED.

More than 200 American children were blinded in one or both eyes this year celebrating the Fourth of July with fireworks. So claims National Committee for Prevention of Blindness, after checking up.

It's less than one child out of every 100,000 in the country. No statistics were kept, but years ago the rate was much higher. Safe and Sane Fourth was as wise a move as this country ever made.

While there are no conditions under which it is better to be a slave than to be free, there are many conditions under which it is much easier to be a slave, and many have preferred such slavery rather than bear the responsibilities of freedom.—Calvin Coolidge.

Each man is entitled to his rights and the rewards of his service, be they ever so large or ever so small.—Calvin Coolidge.

Nature pays just rewards. If you take more exercise you can smoke more without being sick.

They think an Illinois crazy man is a woman hater, but they are wrong; the only woman haters are women.

Presidential speeches are being sent by radio, which is very nice, because sometimes the radio doesn't work.

A toolmaker is suing Ford for $500,000 and if he designed those doors that won't stay shut we hope he loses.

Robbers hid in a mine in Colorado. This is something new. Robbers, as a rule, own the mine.

A Sioux City man lost his fight for divorce and $80,000 alimony from his wife, so may have to work for a living.

It must be awful to be a round-the-world flyer with no new worlds to conquer.

Nicest thing about this Chicago murder case is the women want to read it and give you the rest of the paper.

At Budweis, in Bohemia, the cops have killed all the cats, so now the old maids must talk to themselves.

Tear bomb was exploded at a St. Cloud, Minn., dance and every girl there looked as if her shoes hurt her feet.

A single wire, say the radio experts, makes the best aerial. And a single gossip, we say, makes the best broadcaster.

"I've stood all I can," says the wife of a famous comedian, proving that love chuckles at jokesmiths.

Twelve college girls spent their vacations in a New York tenement, and liked it because they didn't have to do it.

In Naples a pack of wolves gathered outside a church door, possibly thinking it was where the preacher lived.

Washington cops are making raids in dress suits. The life of a cop is indeed a hard one.

Rebels are marching on the city of Cholultec, in Honduras, but we'll bet they can't pronounce it.

Weeny landed right in the middle of the pool.

The next thing the elephant and the Twins did in the jungle playground was to slide down the sliding board.

"You go first," said Tommy Tiger to the Twins, "and Weeny can go next and I'll go last. It's a lot of fun for it has so many bumps on it."

So Nancy took her turn and Nick took his turn, and then Weeny climbed up the steep ladder at the back to take his turn, with Tommy behind him so he could be all ready to go when Weeny reached the bottom.

But the very minute Weeny reached the top, the whole business crumpled up like a jack-knife and you could not tell which was Weeny and which was Tommy and which was sliding board.

"Oh, oh, oh!" screamed Nancy. "Help, somebody, quick!"

"I'm all right," called Weeny cheerfully. "If only Tommy Tiger would take his paw out of my eye."

"Eye, yourself!" growled Tommy. "I can't move because you are sitting on my tail."

"Here, I'll move these boards and then you can both get up," said Nick.

So Weeny and Tommy both crawled out, all covered with mud and dirt but not mad a bit.

"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed Weeny. "Ho, ho, ho!" roared Tommy. "We didn't get our ride but we had a lot of fun, anyway. I'll tell you what let's do next. Let's go swimming."

The swimming pool is right over there.

"I didn't know tigers could swim," said Nick.

"Sure they can! Especially circus tigers," said Tommy. "Come on, everybody."

LA FOLLETTE SAYS VICTORY WILL BE WITH HIM IN END

Radical Leaders Check Utterances of Labor Papers.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Expressing confidence that "in the end we shall be victorious" Senator La Follette independent candidate for president, declares in a letter to the Non-Partisan political campaign committee of the American Federation of Labor his appreciation for the endorsement of his candidacy by the organization's executive council.

Although it may be "branded as radical by the forces we are fighting" he says, the "ultimate objective" of the independence campaign "in its essence" is "conservative" since it is a policy of conservation of human rights.

The Wisconsin senator charges that "our opponents have deliberately chosen to entrench themselves in defense of vested rights and special privileges" while "we have chosen to fight aggressively and without compromise for human rights."

Says Labor Has Led
The American labor movement, he adds, has been a "prime factor in every enterprise for the conservation of human rights, human lives and those great resources with which nature so lavishly endowed our country for the use and enjoyment of its people."

Boils

THERE is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense kills misery. Common-sense also stops boils! S. S. S. is the common-sense remedy for boils, because it is built on reason. Scientific authorities admit its power! S. S. S. builds blood—power, it builds red-blood-cells. That is what makes fighting-blood. Fighting-blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights pimples! It fights skin eruptions! It always wins! Mr. V. D. Schaaf, 557 15th street, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S. S. S. I am now absolutely cured, and it was S. S. S. that did it."

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

S.S.S. The World's Best Blood Medicine

"We'll get our clothes all wet," said Nancy. "So we can't swim, but we'll go wading."

"Well, you'd better keep your magic shoes on," warned Tommy. "If you don't you are likely to find your self back home, and I'll have to take the rest of my vacation alone."

"We'll keep them on," said Nick. "They are magic so they won't get wet."

So off they all went to the jungle swimming pool.

Tommy dived in first with a splash.

"Fine!" cried Nick.

"That's nothing!" said Tommy. "Why, in the circus I dive twice as far, and sometimes I jump through a hoop of fire. That's why they call me, 'Fire and Water Tommy.' Come on in, the water's fine."

So Nancy and Nick stepped right in.

"Oo! Eee! Isn't it grand!" said Nick. But he said no more for at that minute Weeny gave a run and jump and landed right in the middle of the swimming pool. And Tommy Tiger and Nancy and Nick disappeared like sugar in a teacup.

For when Weeny went in, the water went up as though the whole Atlantic Ocean had been emptied into it.

"My goodness!" cried the elephant. "Where are you, everybody? Where did you go? Oh, there you are. Wait and I'll save you."

"Get out of the water. That's the quickest way to save us," cried Tommy.

"I think I'll be going," said Weeny, after that. "If I stay around here any longer there won't be any playground left."

Bloomington Sheriff Makes Big Haul When He Finds Large Still

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 18.—One hundred and twenty-three quarts of corn whiskey of the real "white male" variety was confiscated by Sheriff Morrison and his deputies yesterday afternoon on the farm of John Manahan of Arrowsmith, Illinois. He and his "hired man" E. L. Ludwig, were arrested and are at the present time in the county jail.

The arrest and confiscation, along with the destruction of a two-coil, 150 gallon mash tank still, located in a corn field were made Sunday afternoon. The two coils made of one-inch copper pipe, approximately 8 feet long when unrolled, were found in the weeds of an apple orchard. The still with furnace, fuel wood and the whiskey was found in the corn field also. The tank for the cooling of the coils was underground and covered with wirt.

PESTS AT WORK.

YELLOWSTONE PARK.—Hordes of timber-killing insects pests are ravaging the great forests of Yellowstone National Park. The more serious of the pests is the spruce bud-worm, which is at work in the Camp Roosevelt region, in the northeastern part of the park. The other pest is the sawfly, which attacks the lodge pole pine.

Copper salts, used to give vegetables a bright green color, before they are served, are among the most dangerous chemicals used at the present day.

GULBRANSEN The Registering Piano

Only the Gulbransen Registers "Touch"

A piano, played by music-roll-and-pedals, that positively registers personal "touch!"

Which means—a piano all folks can play as skillfully, with all the expression and feeling possible to the best hand-playing!

This is the latest and most amazing development in the art of piano-making—a new-day musical instrument indeed—the Gulbransen Registering Piano.

Registering your "touch." This is the thing about the Gulbransen that has so stirred the imagination of the music-hungry public—that has awakened, too, the interest of many capable pianists in the artistic possibilities of the Registering Piano.

Just realize what it means to the present generation of music-lovers—the children too much occupied at school to have time to practice, the men deeply engrossed in their work, the women of the household busily engaged with home and social affairs—that in spite of these handicaps each and all now may enjoy the very highest type of piano music, without study or long practice—real music, played by each, with his or her own personal "touch."

GIANTS DROP FIFTH STRAIGHT AS REDS WIN IN 17 ROUNDS

But Brooklyn Prevented Pirates Taking Advantage of the Defeat.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
In the important games which are now shaping the end of the major league baseball season, pitchers are playing the hero roles usually seized by sluggers.

Babe Ruth, whose bat carried the Yanks through earlier scenes, rests for the moment while the once celebrated staff of Yank twirlers is taking full advantage of an opportunity to pull away from Detroit and Washington as the two consistent challengers play each other.

LETTER FROM RUTH BURKE TO LESLIE PRESCOTT

"I'm going to commence this letter, dearest, with that old bromide, 'I'm the happiest woman in all the world.' I expect Walter would make the same assertion, only putting man in place of woman, if you should ask him the question.

It doesn't seem possible to me, dear, that I can live in this particular rarified atmosphere all the remainder of my life, but Walter is so perfect. Every minute since we have been married he seems to have thought of no one or nothing but me! He wants to load me down with jewels, and yesterday proposed a string of pearls. You will smile, Leslie when I tell you that I refused them, and instead he gave me a diamond and platinum chain that is perfectly gorgeous.

It seems strange to me, Leslie, that I, Ruth Ellington Burke, will in the future have no cause to worry about the necessities or the luxuries of life. I, who have always had to struggle so hard to make both ends meet. You know when I was married to Harry, although he had plenty of money at times and was very poor at others, he was extremely close always with me. I was always the one who had to economize. One hour after Walter and I were married he gave me a bank book in which I found $25,000 had been placed to my account.

I'm sending you today a string of lovely old amber beads. I know how extravagantly you admired the ones we saw at that art shop in Albany. These, I think, are much more beautiful.

You know, dear, I had a little sentiment about sending to you something which was paid for out of my new bank account. I want you to know how I appreciate all your sweetness and kindness to me, how you stood up for me even when Jack insisted that you should turn me down. I'll never forget it, Leslie, never. I am glad, indeed, that I have known you and loved you. You have renewed my faith in my own sex. I know now that women are good friends, and they will do for each other and stand by each other through everything.

Walter says that you and I are the feminine Damon and Pythias. I tell him we're only modern women who have found how much friendship and sympathy and trust and admiration and respect can add to our lives.

We're going back quite soon to Albany. Walter has a foolish idea that he wants me to astonish the natives, I think, although he has said nothing about it to me. Honestly, Leslie, if he could have his way, I would be buying more dresses than I could possibly wear, and already I have more jewels than is good for any one woman.

Yesterday he left me for a short time, and when he came back he was followed by a man who brought a box containing the most gorgeous chinchilla wrap I have ever seen. As only a few days before he had given me an ermine evening wrap, you can see how I have been overwhelmed with gifts. I don't believe I'll ever get used to them, Leslie. I feel almost wicked when I array myself in dainty chiffons and gorgeous velvets, luxurious furs and rare jewels, knowing how hard it is for most women to get along with not enough clothes to keep them warm.

I wouldn't tell this to Walter for the world, for you should see his eyes light up when I appear before him in an entirely new costume. At least I am making him happy, and I pray God that I can always make him happy, for I am going to end this letter just as I began it—I am the happiest woman in all the world.

With the servants who met them in the hall they dealt in the same swift silent fashion as they had dealt with the gatekeeper, and such was the speed and caution of their movements that Sir John and his company had no suspicion of their presence until the door of the dining-room crashed open before their eyes.

The sight which they beheld was one that for some moments left them mazed and bewildered. They imagined that here was some mummery, some surprise prepared for the bridal couple by Sir John's tenants or the folk of Smithick and Pencymwick, and were encouraged in this belief by the circumstance that not a single weapon gleamed in all that horde of ostentatious intruders. Although they came full-armored against any eventualities, yet by their leader's orders not a blade was bared. What was to do was to be done with their naked hands alone and without bloodshed. Such were the orders of Sak-el-Bahr, and Sak-el-Bahr's were not orders to be disregarded.

Himself he stood forward at the head of that legion of brown-skinned men arrayed in all the colors of the rainbow, their heads swathed in turbans of every hue. He considered the company in grim silence, and the company in amazement considered this turbaned giant with the masterful face that was tanned to the color of mahogany, the black forked beard, and those singularly light eyes glittering like steel under his black brow.

Thus a little while in silence, then with a sudden gasp Lionel Tressilian sank back in his tall chair as if bereft of strength.

The agate eyes flashed upon him, smiling cruelly.

"I see that you, at least, recognize me," said Sak-el-Bahr in his deep voice. "I was assured I could depend upon the eyes of brotherly love to pierce the change that time and stress have wrought in me."

Sir John was on his feet, his lean, swarthy face flushing darkly, an oath on his lips. Rosamund sat on as if frozen with horror, considering Sir Oliver with dilating eyes, whilst her hands clawed the table before her. They, too, recognized him to make them fast, and having performed that duty with a speedy, silent dexterity they abandoned him.

Sak-el-Bahr watched their performance with those grimly smiling eyes of his. When it was done he spoke again and pointed to Lionel, who leaped up in sudden terror with a cry that was entirely inarticulate. Little brown arms encircled him like a legion of snakes. Powerless, he was lifted in the air and borne swiftly away. For an instant he found himself held face to face with his turbaned brother. Into that pallid, terror-stricken human mask the renegade's eyes stabbed like two daggers. Then deliberately and after the fashion of the Moslem he was become he spat upon it.

"Away!" he growled, and through the press of corsairs that thronged the hall behind him a lane was swiftly opened and Lionel was swallowed up, lost to the view of those within the room.

"What murderous deed do you intend?" cried Sir John indomitably.

He had risen and stood grimly dignified in his bonds.

"Will you murder your own brother as you murdered mine?" demanded Rosamund, speaking now for the first time, and rising as she spoke, a faint flush coming to overspread her pallor.

She saw him wince; she saw the mocking lustful anger perish in his face, leaving it vacant for a moment. Then it became grim again with a fresh resolve. Her words had altered all the current of his intentions. They fixed in him a dull, fierce rage. They silenced the explanations which he was come to offer and which he scorned to offer here after that taunt.

"It means you love that—whelp, that thing that was my brother," he said, sneering. "I wonder will you love him still when you come to be better acquainted with him? Though, faith, naught would surprise me in a woman and her love. Yet I am curious to see—curious to see."

He laughed.

"I have a mind to gratify myself. I will not separate you—not just yet."

He advanced upon her.

"Come thou with me, lady," he commanded, and held out his hand. Face to face stood now Sir Oliver with Rosamund—face to face

BRYAN HIT AT DEFENSE TEST IN HIS SPEECH

branka, regardless of party affiliation or station in life, have co-operated and supported me in large measure responsible for the high honor that this occasion confers.

As a business man who has been endeavoring to apply business principles to government and not as an experienced platform speaker, I will give all the support to our national leader that my ability will permit.

By the selection of one from the heart of the great middle west as its candidate for the vice presidency, the democratic party recognizes the importance of agriculture as one of the basic industries of the nation, and we have the assurance that our party is in direct sympathy with the needs and advancement of the agricultural interests of the country.

No man should accept nor should a great political party tender the nomination to a candidate without a full realization on both sides that such a selection imposes on the one chosen a firm obligation to the whole people to stand for the ideals of America. The ambitions of the individual are of no consequence and must not stand in the way of the preservation and success of a democratic form of government which can only be achieved and maintained by guarding the happiness, prosperity and contentment of the people residing in all sections of the country.

This nation is composed of diverse peoples and activities. The success of a nation requires that the desires and interests of each shall be subject to the needs and rights of all. Individuals, groups, factions and organizations, whether they be persons, parties, creeds or races, economic or otherwise, must be restrained to the extent that the equal rights of others shall not be impaired.

Time, nor the occasion, will permit a review of all the issues treated in the platform of our party, but I will analyze some of them in the plain direct manner that the people of the agricultural states are accustomed to.

A Progressive Platform

The representatives of the people, the good men and women who served as delegates at the recent National Democratic Convention, did their work well. The platform which they adopted upholds the ideals of America, demands a return to the honesty in government of our forefathers, and outlines the legislative and administrative requirements to restore equality in government. It is the most progressive platform covering the tried and practical measures for the economic freedom and prosperity of the people that has ever been promulgated by a national political convention.

A Progressive Candidate

That great democratic convention, so recently held in Madison Square Garden, is a striking illustration of the soundness of heart and saneness of mind of the American people.

Torn by passions and prejudices, that great convention refused to be cajoled into cowardice or deadlocked into desperation, but tenaciously held to its purpose until out of the dying embers of controversy the spirit of unity rose and reason triumphed in the nomination of that able lawyer, that trained diplomat, that experienced statesman, that champion of the rights of humanity, that progressive democrat, John W. Davis.

Honesty Is Essential

Honesty, efficiency and economy in governmental affairs, municipal, state and national, is the need of the hour. There must be honesty in the heart, honesty in the mind, honesty in business and honesty in official life if the ideals of the republic are to be maintained. Efficiency and economy in business and government can only be achieved by integrity in thought and in action.

The great masses of the people today are calling for progressive leadership. The unrest throughout the country is caused by inertia on the part of public officials, mounting numbers of government employees, duplications and overlapping in governmental agencies, useless boards and commissions, the resultant high cost of government, an excessive taxation, and the failure of the government to function for the protection and welfare of the weaker members of society.

The buying of immunities, the issuing of permits, the hoisting of tariff schedules and the granting of government oil leases in return for campaign contributions, must be uprooted and destroyed forever if this government is to endure. Men must be selected for public positions on account of their honesty and ability, and not on account of their social qualities or their political strategy.

Woman's Worth and Equality

Our platform takes special notice of woman's entrance into the arena of politics. Woman's rightful place is by the side of man. Their blood is mingled in their offspring and they are united as no others can be in guarding the home, the unit of society, the nursery of youth. Everything that is good and wholesome will be benefited by woman's council. Every righteous cause will triumph the sooner because of her political activity. She will not only be the vigilant defender of health, education and spiritual life but as treasurer of the household, she will powerfully assist in the introduction of economies in government. The democratic party has no principles, policies or plans that it cannot submit to her judgment and her sense of justice. She has been enfranchised on an equality with man in employment, compensation and jury service is reasonable and equitable.

Child Welfare

The welfare, education and protection of child life, and the care of mothers are of first importance and should be given every consideration that law and administration could offer.

Our party testifies to its interest in the child labor amendment to the Constitution by pointing out that it could not have been submitted without democratic votes. Since the adoption of the democratic platform Arkansas, a democratic state, has the honor to be the first state to ratify the child labor amendment.

All legislation for the benefit of the wage earners rests on the first sentence of our platform's labor plank, "Labor is not a commodity. It is human." Therefore it must be dealt with humanly. Lincoln echoed the sentiments of Jefferson when he declared that in case of conflict between the two the man must come before the dollar. This is a fundamental difference between the attitude of republican leaders and the attitude of democratic leaders on this subject. The "Captains of Industry" have their place and should be protected in their rights, but those whom they employ and whose labor they direct have rights as sacred and which are essential as their employers to industrial welfare and our political progress. Equality of political rights implies, and should be accompanied by, equality of opportunity.

The Democratic party was the first large party to declare for a Secretary of Labor, and the Democratic administration of Woodrow Wilson was the first to have a representative of labor at the President's council table. The Democratic party has led in protecting the wage earners' rights to organize and to bargain collectively. It has been labor's champion in securing the eight hour day and in obtaining relief from protection from government injunction. Labor is entitled to a living wage at American standards with a margin for old age.

The refusal of the present Republican administration to permit the railway mail employees to receive a living wage at American standards was unfair and unjust to labor and illustrates their economy program which is further illustrated in the veto of the pension bill and of the soldiers' adjusted compensation bill.

Our party has always been the labor man's friend, not to secure his vote but because the nation cannot progress unless he progresses. It cannot ignore his inalienable rights without jeopardizing the rights of all.

Outlawing of War

The democratic party pledges all its energy to the outlawing of the whole war system. The statement could not be stronger and it expresses the sentiment of a large majority of the American people. The only hope of the world is found in the substitution of machinery for peace in the place of machinery for war.

Was, propaganda, mobilization demonstration of the civil and industrial resources of the country when we are at peace with the world unnecessarily inflames the mind of the American youth, are a great economic waste, mislead the people of other lands as to the peaceful and friendly intention of the United States government and should be discouraged by all friends of world peace.

Our party will endeavor to secure world disarmament by international agreement providing for a referendum on war except in case of actual or threatened invasion. This may require time but it is worth waiting for and worth waiting for.

The reason given in the democratic platform for a referendum will commend itself to the conscience of the world, upon it is the sentiment that will some day make this a warless world. Until international agreements can be made to maintain the peace of the world, an adequate army and navy for our national safety must be maintained.

Needs of Agriculture

All political parties give much attention to the needs of agriculture, especially during political campaigns. The attitude of the two major political parties toward agriculture, its importance, its conditions and its needs, is clearly set forth in their respective platforms. Four years ago, at the time the republican administration came into power, the farmers and stock raisers were receiving good prices for their produce. There was a market at fair prices for land. The farmers were among the first to feel the effects of legislation and administrative action which changed the conditions of the farmer from prosperity to adversity, and caused the farmers' bank balance to disappear and mortgages on his farm to take its place. The republican policy of reducing the higher schedules of the surtax on incomes and removing the tax from the profiteer, and through this means shifting the taxes from those who were best able to pay to those who were already overburdened, had its direct and injurious effect on the farmers. The adoption by the Republican party of the prohibitive tariff compelled the American farmer to purchase what he used and wore in artificial and highly protected market, and the same high tariff rates reduced the buying ability of the farmer's customers abroad for his surplus grain and meat. The deflation policy of the republican administration, advocated in its national platform of 1920, and endorsed in the speech of acceptance of its candidate for the presidency, resulted in withdrawing bank loans and discounts of five billions of dollars, contracted our currency by a billion and a half dollars, cut the

Spent Fortune in Search

"I spent $1,000 in 7 years treating with physicians, some specialists costing me $10 a visit, only to at last say that nothing could be done for me. I had cancer of the stomach, I suffered awfully in my stomach, but after taking a few doses of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy these all disappeared and for 3 years am feeling fine." prices of the farmer's grain and live stock in half, destroyed the market value of his land, threw thousands of farmers into bankruptcy and spread industrial depression and unemployment throughout the country. The relief plan provided by the Republicans which increased the import duty on wheat, although the farmers were exporters of grain, had added to the farmer's knowledge of the workings of the protective tariff and still further depressed the price of the farmer's grain abroad where he is compelled to sell his surplus production. Relief measures provided by the Republican administration, such as intermediate credit banks and other organizations for loaning the farmer money at high interest rates with a commission paid to the middle men for making the loans, has encouraged the farmer to go still deeper into debt and has made his down fall more certain in the end.

The Democratic party has proven itself to be the friend of the farmer in the past and the platform adopted in the recent national Democratic convention provides for the most complete and practical relief for the farmer that any political party or organization has ever conceived. The farmer needs the high tariff rates reduced so as to enable him to buy a competitive market at home and remove the restrictions which have injuriously affected the foreign market in which he sells his surplus products. He needs the support of the Federal Reserve system as it was intended by the Democratic party, which framed the bill, and he needs relief from the deflation policy of the Republican party which is largely responsible for the farmer's distress. The farmer needs lower railroad and water rates which will benefit both the buyer and seller national and international. He needs the development of a deep water way system from the Great Lakes to the ocean and to the gulf, and he needs the development of our water power to supply cheaper fertilization on the farm and to supply power, light and fuel for his service in his home. He needs better and more uniform ware house laws. He needs legislation, state and national, that will enable the farmer to develop cooperative marketing facilities which will increase the price that he receives and reduce the price that the ultimate consumer pays. The farmer needs an export marketing corporation, or commission, so that his small surplus product, which is sold in the market abroad, will not establish the price of the whole crop he produces. The farmer needs the benefit of the reclamation act of 1924, which was defeated by the republican conferees one hour before adjournment of the last session of congress, and he needs the reclamation of the arid and semiarid lands of the west. The farmer needs the democratic administration and a congress that will not permit a Mellon tax plan to relieve multi-millionaires from paying their share of the cost of government. There are some of the measures of relief, advancement and encouragement that are outlined in the democratic platform. These measures will not be unfair to any other industry or interest.

Water Power

The democratic platform favors the development of our water power. If the water power of Muscle Shoals and in the mountain streams and in the rivers throughout the land were developed it would supply the power to operate all of our factories, all of our industries and all of our means of transportation. It would enable the raw materials of the country to be manufactured where they are produced, thus saving the cost of transportation of the raw material to the factory and the finished product back to the consumer. It would enable industries to spring up where needed most to create business and to supply human needs. If the water power of the nation were developed it would furnish electric current to light and heat the homes of the cities and on the farms, and supply electric power to operate all the machinery necessary for the needs of the farm and for the convenience and comfort of the homes, both city and rural, at a small fraction of the present cost.

The Democratic platform favors the strict public control of and conservation of all the nation's natural resources, including coal, iron, oil and timber. The Democratic party believes that the nation should retain the title to its water power sites and favors the expeditious creation and development of our water power for the use of our citizens. If the water, power sites of the country were allowed to pass into the hands of great combinations of capital the people would pass under a yoke of servitude more galling, of possible, than the foreign land lord system.

The platform favors the recovery of the navy's oil reserves, and all other parts of the public domain, which have been fraudulently or illegally leased or otherwise transferred to the development of private interests.

Law Enforcement

The democratic party is the friend of orderly government. It believes with Jefferson that acquiescence in the will of the people is the first principle of principles. Laws should be obeyed by all regardless of whether they like or dislike them. It is the doctrine of anarchy, not the doctrine of America, that laws are to be obeyed only by those who approve. The democratic platform declares that "The Republican administration has failed to enforce the prohibition law; is guilty of trafficking in liquor permits and has become the protector of violators of this law." The democratic party through its platform pledges itself to respect and enforce the constitution and all laws.

Private Monopoly

The democratic platform has again reiterated its attitude toward a private monopoly when it says that, "A private monopoly is indefensible and intolerable." The failure of the Republican administration to enforce the law against conspiracies in restraint of trade and illegal combinations of business which stifle competition, has unnecessarily increased the cost of living and permitted the profiteer to ply his trade without let or hindrance. Those engaged in agriculture the middle classes and the wage earners, have been placed at such a disadvantage that their situation required action. The political unrest and discontent throughout the country is a protest against the inaction of those in public office.

The failure of the national republican administration to enforce the law against private monopoly caused some of the states and state fiscals in the middle west, to enter the field of commerce for the purpose of establishing competition to protect the public from the unconscionable profiteer. In this way millions of dollars a year have been saved to the people in their coal, gasoline and oil bills.

Municipal and state governments should not, in my opinion, engage in competition with legitimate private business, but when private monopoly defies the legally constituted authorities, or when government officials become corrupt and the federal government fails to function for the protection and welfare of the masses, it becomes necessary for the state and municipal governments to use all means at their command to prevent impositions upon the public, or the result in the community and state will be I. W. W.'s, Bolsheviks, and anarchy.

I have only reviewed a few of the provisions of the democratic platform but will discuss others at a later date.

ested parties who have made a study of their respective needs. The Democratic candidates are in harmony with the platform upon which they have been nominated, and upon which they will go forth in this campaign.

The Democratic platform is broad enough, strong enough and progressive enough to satisfy those who believe in that great democratic principle, of equality before the law.

The Democratic party presents a program of progressive policies for which the party stands as a unit, without the intervention of faction, bloc or section.

The Democratic party enters the campaign with a spirit of harmony and a unity of purpose rarely found more progressive measures for the benefit and protection of the common people, in the constitution and in the statutes during the eight years of the administration of that great statesman and patriot, Woodrow Wilson, than ever enacted by any other party during any twenty-five years of the nation's history.

The Democratic party during the World's Fair demonstrated its ability to coordinate, its ability to govern, its integrity as a party and its desire to lead the nations of the world into an honorable and enduring peace. Notwithstanding the billions of dollars handled during the World War when the stress of the times required immediate decisions and the negotiation of large contracts without time for investigation or deliberation, no betrayal of a trust, no trace of graft, and no scandal or dishonesty was brought to the door of any Democrat in official life. This is a record that cannot be duplicated in American history and it should be an assurance to every citizen, and to every organization or interest, that the Democratic party is the instrument, at this time, to carry into effect a government of, by and for the people.

It is unthinkable that the great host of progressive farmers and wage earners, both organized and unorganized, whom I know from active association and cooperation in service for many years, having this great party organization presented now as a fit instrument through which to work their will, should permit a division of strength and make possible the triumph of the forces of reaction and selfish interest.

In accepting the nomination you tender me, I feel it is but due to you to say that I am conscious of no obligation to any interest or any individual that would embarrass me in the discharge of the duties of this office.

I feel that the Democratic party is equally free from obligation to either individuals or interests that would prevent it from being used to restore confidence in government and economic justice in the nation.

I therefore accept the nomination, Senator Harrison, with my solemn pledge that every ability I can exercise, and every effort I make, shall be with an eye single to the material, moral and spiritual welfare of my country and my countrymen.

MRS. BUSH TELLS OTHER WOMEN How Pains in Side and Dragging Down Feelings Were Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Massena, New York.—"I had terrible pains in both my sides and a dragging-down feeling that affected me so that I could hardly walk, and I got run-down. A friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advised me to try it and I have taken it with the best results. I do my housework and also some outdoor work on the farm. The Vegetable Compound has given me back my health and I cannot praise it enough. I am perfectly willing that you should use these facts if my letter will help other women who still suffer."—MRS. DELBERT BUSH, R. E. D. 1, Massena, N.Y.

The spirit of helpfulness shown in the letters we are constantly publishing is worthy of notice.

Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

The Combination Sport Shirt

Like that message to Mars, the ideal sport shirt is always on the way, but never arrives. Designers have worked wonders with the present-day shirt, giving it a comfort and smartness undreamed of ten years ago. Nevertheless, one's shirt persists in riding up at the waist, unless, indeed, you go back to first principles and pin it to the top of the drawers, as any forthright and practical grandmother would instantly suggest.

The type of golf or tennis shirt, pictured in the accompanying sketch, is one that has made its way very slowly. Worn for twenty-five years by "crack" players in England and upon the Continent, it has, for some reason or other, not commended itself to Americans until within the last few seasons. Yet, a casual glance will show how simple and effective this garment is in surmounting the objection to the mounting shirt, which, ever and anon, makes a man pause, sheepishly, in his game to stuff it back where it belongs.

Shirt and drawers are cut in one continuous garment and, of course, it is impossible for the shirt to creep up at the waist, because it is firmly held down. The shirt has a self collar, wide elbow-length sleeves and a patch breast pocket, though these details are frequently varied. The drawers are short, loose-fitting and have full bottoms. The materials of which this shirt is made are chevrets, Oxfords, flannels, silk intermixtures and the like in plain white, plain colors or neat patterns in which white predominates. Above all, such a garment should look cool and, therefore, the white shirt is customarily preferred. You may, however, procure such a style with a white shirt and "fancy" or patterned drawers showing unobtrusive stripes. This lends an agreeable and unusual effect, if you are one of the men who is as fastidious about clothes concealed as about those revealed.

The main consideration about a sporting shirt is that it should be exactly suited to the game whatever it be. No hard-and-fast rules can be laid down. Some men do not like the combination shirt; others will wear no other. Only experience will show what best befits individual requirements. Choose all your wardrobe upon that well-established principle of dress.

The Nut Cracker

By Joe Williams

MR. H. GOWDY
 Hankus Pankus Gowdy was the first ball player to sign a contract with your Uncle Samuel when the Kaiser picked an all-star team of goose-steppers and started out to tour the Big Towns.

That's one record that will stand long after the pitching exploits of Cy Young, fielding dodos of Everett Scott and home-run hysterics of Babe Ruth have been reduced to historic debris.

Hankus didn't demand a 10-day release clause, a stylish bonus or a gaudy split in the swag; all he asked for was a gun that spoke in clear, stentorian tones, and a pair of shoes that didn't object to large tenants.

Mr. H. Gowdy could have joined the great athletic army of barge haulers but he wasn't that kind of a hombre. Mr. Howdy always liked to take his cut at the ball and the pitcher who passed him purposely was no part of a gentleman.

Hankus fought in the trenches with the doughboys in mud up to his ruffled ears. It was an entirely new sensation, this being in the trenches, since Hankus had just left the lowly Braves.

Gowdy never could figure out why the Kaiser was so keen about eating Christmas dinner in Paris. "Holy cow, we gotta cook back in Ohio that can make any of them Paris chefs look like a biscuit juggler in a Child's' window."

Hankus insists he wasn't scared at all. "One day, though, things got pretty bad and for a few minutes I thought we were playing in St. Louis."

"The first time I saw one of them young second lieutenants doing his stuff I knew what General Sherman had in mind when he said 'war is awful.'"

The army, rather belatedly, has named an athletic field in Georgia after Gowdy. To a lot of the baseball boys this would be a rich joke. To old Hankus Pankus it's a rare honor.

Baseball could use more owdys. So could the world for that matter.

The NERVOUS WRECK

by E. J. Rath

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The "Nervous Wreck," an eccentric young easterner, is driving Sally Morgan from her father's ranch on the station when they run out of gasoline. At the point of a gun the Wreck takes five gallons from a passing car.

Later they are held captive at a ranch along the way because Charley McSwain, the foreman, wants Sally for a cook. They discover that Mr. Underwood, the owner of the ranch, was in the car which they held up. Sheriff Bob Wells, who is Sally's fiance, comes to the ranch to take charge of the case. The Wreck notices Sally. "How long do you suppose he's going to stay?" asks Saxon anxiously.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
 "Haven't an idea. Not long. I guess, unless he's looking on his job."

"Oh, Bob never loafs. He's too active. He's a real sheriff."

The Wreck was tired of hearing the sheriff's virtues related, but he side-stepped an argument on the point.

"Well, what are you going to do?" he asked. "Go out in the hills and hide?"

"No. We can't do that. But do we dare go up to the house?"

"If we don't, who gets the supper?"

"Oh, I suppose we do," she said wearily. "But if Bob should happen to walk into the kitchen—" She finished it with a gesture.

He went. He's busy with Underwood. Got to take a chance, anyhow.

"Yes; we've got to."

They walked briskly to the house, praying that the sheriff would stay somewhere around the front until they reached the kitchen. Sally did not breathe comfortably until she made certain that the kitchen was empty. The Wreck moved over to the pantry door and belted it.

"Only one door to watch now," he said.

"Unbolt it, Henry. Suppose he comes in the other way? I'm going through that pantry in one jump. And vice versa, if he comes in from the pantry, I'm not going to be bottled up."

He unbolted the door and Sally went nervously about the work of getting supper.

"You'd better be careful there's nobody in the living-room when you set the table," she warned him. "Take a good look first."

It happened there was nobody in the living-room. As nearly as the Wreck could judge, the sheriff and Mr. Underwood were sitting out front. Every minute or so Sally went to a window that commanded a view of the corral to see whether the black horse was still there. It always was. She was overcoming her first dismay, and in place of it was growing angry.

The odd unreasoning resentment against Bob Wells was returning. It made no difference if he did not know who he was pursuing; from the standpoint of Sally it was no less unpleasant. Nor was she any too certain that he would abandon the chase if he knew, for he was conscientious to the leaning-backward point—a regular bull-dog. He had a habit of talking about enforcing the law impartially against all evildoers; he even boasted about it. She remembered when it seemed to sound very well; but that was before she had a posse on her trail. She wondered how far Bob Wells would really go, if he learned the truth. She was none too sure.

When Charley McSwain came in she jumped at the sound of his step and a fork clattered on the floor.

"That's company," said Charley. "And it happens we've got company, ma'am. The sheriff of this sovereign and God-fearin' county has dropped in to get a little more information about these desperadoes that he's expectin' to exterminate. I just assured him to tell you he's stayin' to supper. Set another plate in the dinin'-room, Henry. He's goin' to eat with the family."

"One more doesn't make any difference," said Sally with an effort at lightness.

"It does with the sheriff, ma'am. He's a powerful eater. I've seen him work. He's a powerful talker, too. He's been workin' up a real good appetite, talkin' to Mr. Underwood. It seems he's aimin' to do great things in the line of makin' the country safe for democracy. Iles been tellin' quite a lot about some of the things he has done already, and the samples is impressive. He's got a posse down the road a piece, waitin' for developments. Tomorrow, as near as I can make out, they're going to raise hell among the wicked."

Sally winced inwardly. Charley was putting things in his own words, of course, but somehow it sounded strangely as if Bob Wells himself were talking.

"So you'd best get plenty, ma'am," concluded Charley, "for he sure has talked himself empty."

All of this brought a grin to the face of the Wreck, which Sally observed.

"You're to wait on the table tonight."

Served, but did not dare resent. But she turned to him abruptly when Charley went out, her mind filled with another thought.

"If he stays for supper, that means you can't wait on the table, Henry."

"I'm not kicking."

"Maybe not. But who's going to take your place? I can't."

"I should say not. I guess we can get one of the boys."

Sally shook her head. She knew cowpunchers.

"Timothy," said the Wreck suddenly. "But I wonder if he will," she mused.

"He will; don't worry."

"Have you been fighting with Timothy?" she eyed him suspiciously.

"Lord no! Timothy won't fight anybody. But he'll wait on the table."

She knew that something had passed between the Wreck and Timothy. She might have guessed if she had counted the dishes.

"There'll have to be a reason for it," she said. "You'll have to be sick. You'll have to go down to the bunk house and stay there."

"And suppose this sheriff comes in while you're up here alone?"

"Oh, I can take care of myself."

He did not like the idea of leaving her to face possible consequences, but he could see that it might be necessary. It would take a real reason to avert any possible speculation in the mind of Charley McSwain, who still had a way of reverting to the fact that Henry Williams was not "very strong," and who always grinned faintly when he mentioned it.

The Wreck found Timothy in the shed where they kept the big car. He was passing the time in grinding valves. There was a faint look of alarm in his eyes as he beheld the thrower of dishes.

"You're to wait on the table tonight," said the Wreck bluntly. "Better go up to the kitchen now."

Increased Activity in Wool Raising Now Urged

By Associated Press Leased Wire
 Urbana, Ill., Aug. 19.—Satisfactory prices for lambs, and the activity and strength of the wool market should not be allowed to discourage breeding for better quality wool and lambs, according to W. G. Kammlade, assistant chief of sheep husbandry at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

"Every ewe that did not raise a good lamb, and produce good wool last year, should be culled out of the flock before the breeding season starts," he said. "If growers insist on retaining every available ewe to produce lambs the time of excess supply and lower prices will be brought nearer. Quality of product is just as important, and often more so, than quantity when profits are being figured. This is shown at the present time when poorer grades of lambs are selling from $5 to $7 a hundred less than top lambs."

therefore, the ewes should be judged on their ability to produce a good fleece as well as on their ability to raise a good lamb. All ewes that are weak in the back, shallow bodied, narrow chested, high in the flank and light in the hind quarters should be thrown out of the flock along with all those that are very leggy and that are not good milkers. Ewes lacking constitution and vigor will not make the most profitable producers of lambs and wool.
